Strange Companions.

Authentic stories are often read of the peculiar companionship sometimes formed among the animals, familiar among them being the one told of a hen which brooded over a litter of puppies, guarding them with jealous care. Dogs and cats, though generally antagonists, frequently become playmates and eat from the same dish.

The strangest companionship which has ever come under the Daytona News reporter's observation is between a dog owned by Mr. and Mrs. Straskosh, who live at Kaipo cottage on Cedar street, and a squirrel, which is a wild one, having its habitat in one of the trees nearby. This squirrel has become very tame, the people living in that section frequently calling it upon the piazzas and feeding it nuts.

How the friendship between the squirrel and the dog started no one knows, but Mr. Straskosh noticed the squirrel on a tree a few feet from the ground the other day barking as though in anger at the dog, which was lying on the porch.

The dog pricked up her ears and rushed to the foot of the tree barking vociferously and attempted to reach the squirrel which would run down the tree and then retreat rapidly. Finally the squirrel leaped upon the dog's back and then sprang to the ground when a regular race was indulged in, reminding one somewhat of a game of tag.

This dog has learned many tricks, one of the best being a cake walk. She will squeeze upon command or play dead and seems to thoroughly enjoy an imaginary fight with her owner.

J. P. Mendel, the cigar maker on north Beach street, is taxed to his utmost to fill the orders for cigars that are coming in. Mr. Mendel makes a high grade class of goods and can make to order, for special customers, cigars in any shape, size and quality. The best grades of Porto Rico tobacco are used and also clear Havana goods. Smokers should call and see Mr. Mendel when wanting a good smoke.

A Poem for Today

DOUBT

By Lord Tennyson

Y^OU say, but with no touch of scorn,
Sweet hearted, you, whose light blue eyes
Are tender over drowning ones,
You tell me, doubt is Devil born.

I know not; one indeed I know

In many a subtle question versed,
Who touched a jarring lyre at first,
But ever strove to make it true;

Perverse in faith, but pure in deeds,

At last he beat his music out
There lives more faith in honest doubt,
Believe me, than in half the creeds.

He fought his doubts and gathered strength,
He would not make his judgment blind,
He faced the specters of the mind
And laid them; thus he came at length

To find a stronger faith his own:

And Power was with him in the night,
Which makes the darkness and the light,
And dwells not in the light alone,

But in the darkness and the cloud,

As ever Sinai's peaks of old,
While Israel made their gods of gold,
Although the trumpet blew so loud.

Gems In Verse

Old Fashioned Philosophy.

Scorn not the homely virtues. We are prone
To search through all the world for something new.
And yet sometimes old fashioned things
Are best.

Old fashioned work, old fashioned rectitude,
Old fashioned honor and old fashioned prayer,
Old fashioned patience that can bide its time,
Old fashioned goodness sacred from the world.

Old fashioned satisfaction with enough,
Old fashioned candor and simplicity,
Old fashioned faith that practices what
It professes.

—J. A. Edgerton in National Magazine

Retrospect.

Brother, whatever the world hath taught—
How'er diverse our feet may roam,
Our love can center in one thought
Which leads us to our youthful home.

A humble roof with honest hearts,
Contentment, grace and willing hands,
More hearty to a home impart
Than heritage of house or lands.

What though no net our window stain,
Nor costly carpets carpet the floor?
The blue poppy in the garden pane,
The green grass green about the door.

No paintings grace our narrow hall
With mimic mountain, wood or rill.
The greatest Master of them all
Hath hung his work on every hill.

From boughs where robins build and sing
Like snow the apple blossoms fall,
The wild grape twined above the spring
The poplars shook above the well.

The sparrow built his modest nest
And sang no song unaided by his mate;
The swallow smoothed his slaty breast
Or dipped it in the crystal pool.

The little plot our memories fill
Bright poppy bloom and saffron yields;
The wild rose goes the craggy hill
And yarrow clothes the scanty fields.

Some sunny gleams our hearts recall
That vivid time cannot deny;
Some shadows o'er our memories fall
That sunlight never can chase away.

—J. Jackson Lord in Springfield (Ill.) Journal

A Comparison of Flowers.

The poppies are the brightest, and the
hyacinths are sweetest;
The hollyhocks are staidest in sunny gardens and rows.

The pansies by the bordered walk are fourth and nearest;
But, oh, the snows which are the best
that summer brings!

The violets half hidden by the mossy
banks are rarest;
The iris is the bravest, with its banner borne of kings.

The roses pink and golden and crimson
are the fairest;
But, oh, the faintly lilacs are the best
that summer brings!

The sweet white clovers crowding are the coziest and nearest;
The garden and the fields are full of brightness and perfume.

But, oh, the angel lilies are the purest
and the dearest;
In all the holy land of flowers the holiest that bloom!

—Mabel Earle in Christian Endeavor

Little Kindnesses.

If you were toiling up a weary hill,
Bearing a load beyond your strength to bear,
Straining each nerve untiringly, and still Stumbling and losing foothold here and there,
And each one passing by would do so much
As give one upward lift and go his way,
Would not the slight reiterated touch
Of help and kindness lighten all the day?

If you were breasting a keen wind, which tossed
And buffeted and chilled you as you strove,
Till, baffled and bewildered quite, you lost
The power to see the way, and aim to move,
And one, if only for a moment's space,
Gave you a shelter from the bitter blast,
Would you not find it easier to face
The storm again when the brief rest was past?

There is no little and there is no much,
We weigh and measure and define in vain.
A look, a word, a light responsive touch,
Can be a minister of joy to pain.
A man can die of hunger walked in gold,
A crumb may quicken hope to stronger breath.

And every day we give or we withhold
Some little thing which tells for life or death.

Automobile Accident.

E. R. Thomas's chauffeur, Edward Hawley, was seriously injured and Mr. Thomas was slightly hurt as the result of a collision last Friday between Mr. Thomas's 90 horsepower racing automobile and one of the country stages which operates on the road on which the automobile races, under the auspices of the Havana Automobile Club, are to be held. Mr. Thomas was driving the machine in his daily practice, with Hawley beside him. The machine was spurring between Punta Brava and Guajaya at a sixty-mile pace, when an ox cart turned in the road a short distance ahead. Mr. Thomas tried to avoid the cart, and struck the stage. The machine swerved and ran over the ditch, and up the bank on one side and then back and up the bank on the other side. It then turned over and both the occupants were thrown out. Hawley landed heavily and was severely injured in the hip and badly shaken. He may also be injured internally. Mr. Thomas received a bad cut over the eye but beyond the shock was not otherwise injured.

Later reports from Cuba state that Mr. Hawley is suffering from a badly sprained back and a few bruises and that he is not seriously injured. The machine is not likely to be entered in any of the races.

Cottage Euchre Club.

This club met Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Maley. The regular meeting night is on Thursday, and it should have met at Kaipo cottage, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Straskosh but, owing to the slight illness of Mrs. Straskosh, was postponed and held at the aforesaid cottage.

The first ladies' prize was won by Mrs. Clements, the second being secured by Mrs. Kelley.

The first gentlemen's prize was secured by J. R. Burns, the second falling to J. S. Barnes.

Consolation prizes were awarded J. D. Maley and Mrs. R. S. Maley.

Refreshments were served and, as usual, the members of the club spent a very enjoyable evening.

The next meeting will be held at Kaipo cottage.

FINE HORSES AND VEHICLES

Are More in Evidence Than Ever Before On Daytona's Streets.
We Give a Partial List.

Few things illustrate the progressiveness and the character of the residents of a city as do the class of horses and vehicles used by them. The auto is of course preferred by many people, but everyone enjoys a ride behind a fine pair of horses, if the rig and harness too, are of the latest pattern and finish.

There are in Daytona this year more stylish horses and carriages to be seen than ever before, owned by people who have their autos, or are financially able to own them if they so desired.

F. A. Palmer owns a grey gelding colt, the only one of its class in the city. This horse is not fast but is very stylish, his leg action being all that could be desired.

Of the fast and stylish driving horses, the ones owned by G. A. Foye, Dr. VanValzah and Leonard Gill are well worth mention. Mr. Foye has three fine driving horses, one a 5-year-old bay gelding, which his owner claims can do a mile in less than 2:30. Leonard Gill does not consider his bay mare so very fast on the single mile, but he claims to have driven 22 miles in one hour and fifty minutes, showing good bottom. This mare is very gentle and seems not to fear either train or auto.

Dr. VanValzah claims for his animal a speed equal to any other horse in town.

In a class by itself is the pony belonging to Col. Stuenkel. This pony has won five prizes at Madison Square Garden and also holds 17 blue ribbons won at various horse shows.

The finest all-round lady's horse is the black chestnut gelding owned by Mrs. D. A. Blodgett. He is the most stylish in harness and is a thoroughly safe one. Under the saddle he is a single footer, the gait being an even and easy one for his mistress. This horse was bought by Mrs. Blodgett in Chicago for her

The circulation of the DAILY NEWS is steadily increasing and on Monday passed the 500 mark by a clear majority of 100. Monday's edition of the paper was exhausted fifteen minutes after the last form was off the press. 600 for a daily in a city the size of Daytona is a very creditable showing and is evidence that the public appreciate our efforts. It shall be our aim to build the circulation to a still higher figure and to accomplish this will make it better and better each day.

The Vastness of Texas.

This will help you to figure out just how large Texas really is. If you have a star mathematician in your family tell him the number of square miles there are in the big state, then tell him the population of the globe; then ask him if all the people in the world were placed in Texas and its soil divided out among them per capita how large would the man's farm be who had a wife and two children? When he gets through figuring, then whisper in his ear, "More than half an acre."—Texarkana (Tex.) Courier.

A New Brand.

A prominent missionary bishop of the Episcopal church, according to the Washington Star, was in the habit of introducing among the Eskimos who were his special charges many things to amuse or interest them in order that he might gain their attention to his preaching. It happened, however, that in spite of the various ingenious inventions which he placed before them these sons of the arctic regions continued to be impressed by the white man's canned food more than by anything else he brought with him. Being unwilling to eat the blubber and drink the oil of the Eskimos, the white man always came with many cans of meat and vegetables.

One day the bishop above referred to decided to spring a genuine surprise on the natives. He had with him on this trip a talking machine, with records in the Eskimo tongue. He gathered his charges all around him in the little meeting house and started the machine going. Everybody was certainly puzzled. At last a smile broke in upon the face of one.

"Canned white man," he said in glee.

The African Hyena.

"One of the great pests of Africa," said a traveler, "is the hyena. Lions and leopards do a lot of damage, but their skins, if they are shot or trapped, are some compensation for the loss they cause. The average settler, be he farmer, trader or official, rather welcomes their presence near his camp for the sake of the excitement which they afford, and very few men would hesitate to sacrifice a bullock or several head of goats or sheep for the sake of bagging a lion. But the skin of the hyena is worthless, and there is no credit whatever in shooting him, as he is an arrant coward. He makes the night hideous with his howls, and in the dark he is very daring and will enter compounds and huts and carry off almost anything. Nothing is too old or tough for him. Horns, skins, old boots—anything is grist to his mill."
